

Student members of the Education Committees of Tilburg School of Humanities and Digital Sciences

For the academic year 2018-2019

Tilburg University

For the education committees, we are looking for new students (of all bachelor and (research) master programs of TSHD: Online Culture, Communication and Information Sciences, Philosophy, Teacher training program Dutch, Teacher training program Philosophy, Language and Communication, and Philosophy) who feel that participation is important for students and who would like to give advice to the Faculty Board. Thus, if you like to contribute to the quality of education of your education program, this could be interesting for you!

What do the education committees do?

The education committees advise the program director and the student advisors of the Faculty Board and the Faculty Education Consultation on the quality (policy, organizational and content) of the different bachelor and master programs. It is intended that the education committees have a varied composition of the programs so that all students can be heard. Therefore, we are looking for students from all years and from all directions and graduate profiles.

Function

Participating in the Educational Committee will take on average one hour per week. The duties of a student member of the education committee are:

- Liaising with the program director of the relevant program and the student advisors of the Faculty Board and the Faculty Education Consultation
- To advise the Student advisors and answer questions from the Faculty Council
- Monitor the quality of education. This includes: maintain contact with students from your program and
- providing input into the meeting when you notice that there are problems in your program
- Studying documents about various aspects of your program
- Attending meetings of the education committee of your program (about once every two months)

Profile

A member of the education committee must be enrolled as a student for a course at Tilburg School of Humanities and Digital sciences. The term formally runs from September 1st 2018 to August 31th 2019. In practice, there will be meetings (and you should therefore be available) until July 1st 2019.

Compensation

A member of a program committee receives a fee for attending meetings (attendance money). This will be a sum of € 45,- per month. This attendance money will be awarded for 10 months, if you remain appointed in the committee throughout the term.

Information and application

If we have piqued your interest, please apply before June 15th 2018 by sending an email to both student advisors:

- Student advisor for the Faculty Board: Janne Wijdeven
(j.wijdeven@tilburguniversity.edu)
- Student advisor for the Education Faculty Consultation: Anneloes van Delft
(a.j.c.p.vandelft@tilburguniversity.edu)

Make sure you put in your email indicating which education committee you are applying for, which program you follow, in which year you are and which direction you have chosen in your program. Do not forget to add your motivation and resume. When you need more information, you can contact the student advisors as well.
